FINER FARMING.

(H. A. Powers.)

If you had black rot on your grape vines last year spray them before they bloom. That should be done within the next week. Remove all old dried up grapes that are now on the vines.

G. W. Saint, Sardis, took out some black locust posts last year that had been in the ground for thirty years. They were still sound. There is nothing better to stop gullies than a grove of these trees.

Use the section harrow before the crop comes up, and after that just as many times as possible. You had better kill that crop of young grass and delay the planting of some field for a day. This plan will put you ahead in a few weeks.

It is now time to spray the apples. Don't let the calyses get closed up. There is where some poison must be placed for the codling moth to eat as soon as it is hatched. Otherwise he will bore in and the apples will drop before they get ripe.

J. C. Benson says "Yes we section harrow corn before it comes up when possible." The cheapest method of killing grass is to use this implement frequently. You would be surprised to find that there are yet farmers in this county that do not know the value of this great tool.

R. F. Stanfill, Reagan, is in no hurry to get his corn planted in the bottoms. A firm seed bed is what we need most. Do you remember the corn crop of 1918 and also the amount of early breaking? We have always believed that firm seed beds have been responsible for a large part of that large yield.

Last year we showed George Council how to make up a spray mixture for his peach trees. He informed us Saturday that he made up again this year himself and was getting his pump repaired so that he could apply it himself soon. He knows that it paid. The more fruit trees that we have the more we have for bugs to live on, hence we should not be surprised that there are getting to be more of these pests each season.

Arch Weaver, Sardis, says that a few years ago he secured good results by planting a field of thin land in corn and velvet beans. This corn was harvested and then the cattle turned in to clean up the beans. He says that he secured fine winter pasture in this way. We urge that you especially plant the red spots of corn in this bean. They will make more feed than the corn stalk alone and help prevent washes. This is the cheapest bean that we can buy this season.

W. S. Park has his hogs on wheat now. They have not eaten it down. They will be moved to herds grass. They will be moved to herds grass pasture and allowed to stay there until the wheat is ripe and then be allowed to clean it up. He had some ten week's old pigs that weighed 60 pounds. Pasture will reduce the cost of grains. We are sure about that. When hogs consume large amounts of pastured crops there is a margin for profit. However, the hogs that run in a woods lot or dry lot will not make money. There is no way to do it. Plan to pasture your hogs and get the profit. You can do it if others can.

W. O. Hill, Darden, who is a farmer and banker, recently gave his idea of the cultivation of cotton. His idea is to use every plan which will save labor. He does not bed the ground.

His reason for that is that if there are any grass seed on the ground they are thrown into the same place as the seed so that there are more grass seed in the drill and near top of the ground than any other part of the field. If furrow is run between each row this will give drainage. He says that when he uses the section harrow he tears out the grass and at the same time throws in a little dirt to cover up some of the seed that have not sprouted. In all of his ideas about cotton he always fell back on the one principle of his plan was to save labor with efficient cultivation.

REGARDING GOOD ROADS.

Beacon, Tenn., April 17, 1920.
Dear Editor:

I am glad indeed to see the progressive move that my old home county is just on the eve of taking. I notice that your magistrates are offering to the public of your county an opportunity to get out of the mud and old ruts it has been in so long. Our county (I call it the good county of Decatur) is reaching out across the line in several places to take her sister county by the hand and say "let's get on higher plane of living." By carrying out this action the people of Henderson county not only have pleasure and prosperity, but for the coming generations all will be thankful and will gladly maintain and add to the highway. The traveling public will visit every part of your county where it can be reached by good roads.

I would insist that all the voters of my old county go out on the election day called and do as Decatur county did on the 26th day of April, 1919. Our people voted for bonds—even doubling those who voted against the issue, and with what has already been done between showmen, have already demonstrated that we will not be in the mud very much longer—and the vote would carry by a much larger majority now.

We have the best piece of graded road from Scotts Hill to Decaturville in West Tennessee.

Hurrah for Good Roads.

Your neighbor,

A. J. BROWN.

DEATH OF JOHN F. WHITTLE.

John F. Whittle, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Whittle, of Luray, aged 34 years, died on Thursday, April 22, of tuberculosis, after confinement of several weeks.

Deceased served in France as a soldier of the United States and as a member of a machine gun company. While so serving he was shot through with a machine gun bullet, which had passed through a copy of a New Testament, which was given him by the home ladies before his departure.

He contracted tuberculosis while in the army, came back from across the waters after the armistice and was discharged from Camp Gordon, July 13th, 1919.

The funeral occurred last Friday and the remains were interred at Nemo.

While he was not a member of any church, he was said to be a worthy young man and it is lamentable that he was a victim to patriotic service to his country.

JACKSON DEFEATS LEXINGTON HIGH SCHOOL.

The second baseball game of the season played by the Lexington High School boys was lost to Jackson High last Wednesday afternoon. In the beginning of the game the outlook was good for Lexington, but the tide soon turned and Jackson soon begun to score on Lexington's errors. Lexington played under great difficulty, everyone will admit, but the truth is Lexington was outclassed.

Quite a number went from here to see the game and to "root" for Lexington. The return game will be played here next Thursday. Lexington and Clarksburg will play here next Saturday.
